

The Seminole Theatre Players is the resident theatre company of the Seminole Theatre. The company is dedicated to creating live, accessible theatrical productions for and by the local community. Cast and crew volunteer hundreds of hours of their time to put on three productions each year -- a family favorite, a holiday classic, and a Broadway musical.

Through ad sales, the STP can afford to buy lumber to build sets, make or rent costumes, hire sign language translators for some of the performances, and pay for printing awesome playbills (programs).

So, what do you get? Approximately 300 people attend each performance of each show. At 6-8 performances per show, that's more than 3,000 sets of eyes on your advertisement! But you get more than mere potential clients, you also get the satisfaction of knowing you are supporting arts in your community. Now that's a win-win situation!
